

STOP IS PUT TO STREET-CUTTING FOR CARNIVAL

Decorating Company Told It Can't Tear Up Pavement
to Put in Poles

Complaint from a Fort Street merchant yesterday afternoon that the Carnival Decorating Company, the corporation which is handling the "unit plan" of decorating the downtown streets, was cutting holes in the bitulithic pavement between Hotel and King streets brought a rapid sequence of events today. As a result, the "unit plan," which includes the placing of poles, wires and bunting on a systematic scheme of color and design, may not be carried out.

J. A. Gilman, head of the bitulithic company, was informed of the cutting of the holes, which was done to fix the poles firmly in place. Gilman laid this paving under guarantee and when he heard that the holes were being cut, he started on a hunt for the man responsible.

On his way up the street he met Supervisor Ben Hollinger and took the word of supervisors to task for permitting the company to tear up the street.

Hollinger was at once surprised at Gilman. "We never gave any permit for this," he said. "I don't remember any request for such a permit."

Hollinger joined Gilman and both burst into the office of the Carnival Decorating Company on Union street. Ed Webster of the company was there and in a minute he was the center of a storm of words. Webster started to explain that no harm would be done the street, that the holes would be filled, but Gilman and Hollinger didn't agree with this.

"My company has had to guarantee this paving and it is a serious proposition to have it cut up," he declared and Hollinger informed Webster that a permit should have been requested. "We've had so much opposition to our plans now that it looks to me as if the 'unit scheme' will be dropped and the Carnival decorations be along the lines of last year's," said Webster. "We tried to fix the poles to planks on the sidewalk but found that would not give the necessary strength."

COMPANY D MEN TO GET MARKSMANSHIP BADGES

The order of classification in marksmanship for the target year 1914, for the National Guard of Hawaii, was issued yesterday, and company commanders can now requisition for pins and badges for the men enlisted to "earn them."

This evening at the regular weekly assembly and drill, Capt. Walter V. Hunt will issue badges to the men of his command who qualified on the range. Company D has a long list of experts, sharpshooters and marksmen, and leads the regiment in company score of merit.

Last night Company H men received their badges.

TWO JAPANESE UNDER ARREST AS PROCURERS

Charged With Luring Girls
From 5 to 12 Years Old for Immoral Purposes

Yuichiro Ugeda and Mantaro Nakada, Japanese, were arrested today charged with trafficking in young girls for immoral purposes. Statements from five little Japanese girls, aged from 5 to 12 years, were taken this morning by Captain of Detectives McDuffie, Deputy Prosecuting Attorneys A. M. Brown and Charles Chillingworth.

Ugeda and Nakada are said to have admitted that they recruited the girls at many points in the islands. The children said they had been enticed to Honolulu from Maui, Hawaii and Kaula to receive training as geishas and actresses.

Captain McDuffie last night placed three Chinese under arrest who are alleged to have had illicit relations with the girls. One has admitted his guilt, it was given out.

Ugeda, in the presence of the police and the prosecuting officials, admitted having taken a 9-year-old girl to the room of a Chinese and later received a sum of money from the child. The Japanese were confronted by the girls, who, in each instance, were able to positively identify them as the men who induced them to lead a life of shame.

Nakada is reported to be the father of one of the victims. His admissions today have caused the prosecuting attorney's department to bring the matter before the grand jury. The Japanese admit having collected sums of money nightly, a share going to the parents.

WANT TO SELL 2500 TICKETS FOR CARNIVAL

"For things to work out as we wish them to, every one of the 2500 script tickets should be sold and each buyer should have the same seat for every event of the carnival."

Raymond C. Brown, secretary of the Mid-Pacific Carnival and in charge of the script tickets, made this statement today.

The script tickets will be put on sale Monday if possible. They will be sold for $5 in place of $7.50, the price for similar tickets last year.

"What we want to do is to assure every purchaser that he will have the same seat every day of the carnival, whether it be for the parade on the 'Sho-Gun' production. This can only be done by everybody getting the right script, because we can't have enough ushers to show the people to their exact seat."

"The tickets this year are about the same in appearance as they were last—long strips. They are $2.50 cheaper, which should mean that more will be sold than heretofore."

"If it is possible we will have the seats on sale Monday in the promotion rooms. Let us get in and buy them now, not waiting until the last minute."

The same bleachers used last year will be used for the coming carnival. They belong to the carnival company. They have a seating capacity of from 2500 to 3000 and are strongly built. They can be moved from place to place easily.

chap who gets it off of his chest is not benefited by the release, neither is his victim aided in his undertaking by the volley discharged.

Mr. Dougherty then discussed at considerable length a program that is both long and elaborate and promises a vast variety of entertainment during the coming Carnival period.

Following this discussion Mr. Dougherty said:

"In closing I would like to call the attention of this gathering to one grievous oversight that is common with the residents of Honolulu and one that I am sure is not intentional. There is a well established custom in the United States army that the colors of the various organizations be saluted as they pass in review. We are in the habit of overlooking this little courtesy to the Stars and Stripes and, I regret to state, it has been noticed by members of the military who I would not like to have form the opinion that it was through ignorance, neither would I care that they should arrive at the conclusion that it is through indifference. Personally I am positive that it is through carelessness and carelessness alone and I want to ask you men gathered here, especially the members of the press who have such a splendid opportunity of lending assistance, to work for the salutation to the colors in the big military parade of February 22. It will be the greatest event of its kind witnessed anywhere in the United States during 1915 and I feel that we should show the members of the army all the respect that is their due. A little coaching for the general public is all that is necessary and I am sure that the papers will attend to that."

E. H. Paris, president of the Mid-Pacific Carnival, Ltd., said in part:

"Mr. Dougherty has told you of the plans and in the few minutes that I shall detain you I want to tell you something about how the plans are made. The majority of you know that the Mid-Pacific Carnival, Ltd., is incorporated for $150 and I want to say right here that $150 is about the extent of our working capital. We are taking a gamble and a mighty big one. We are gambling on 'good weather' and I trust we will meet with 'Sunshine Jim' Coffroth's luck and have ideal conditions during Carnival week. If this be the case I have no doubt but that all of Mr. Dougherty's plans will materialize and pay for themselves. However, should the opposite be the result and rain spoil our efforts there will be a different story to tell. In that event, we may possibly be called upon to collect that stock assessment that some of you have been clamoring for."

"Personally I am not a 'showman,' and in that respect I have several conferees on the board of directors. Hard-headed business men some of you will designate us. Others will say we are afraid to take a chance. Well, sometimes we would rather not. However, not all are of the same caliber. There are among us several wide-open optimists and it is often necessary for the more—what shall I call them—conservative, to 'sit on the lid.' We depend to be shown just where the corporation will 'get off.' And when we are shown we are willing to trail along. But it has been necessary at all times to show us first. Dougherty will bear me out in this."

"At the present time we have apportioned something like $20,000 as expense for Carnival features and attractions—the exact figures I will give you later. Against this amount, in our budget we have estimated our income and the two columns just about jibe. There is a possibility that our expenses and receipts will fall a little short of the estimate, although the director-general has assured me that he has 'played safe' making the budget of expenses high and receipts low. If this figuring holds throughout there is a chance of a little to spare. In any event we should break about even—barring of course the inclement weather referred to above."

"Many of you will ask why I am so opposed to the levying of an assessment against the Carnival stock. I will tell you. As president of the corporation I would hate to see an assessment levied in order to carry on the Carnival work for the reason that I feel that the stock is 'insurance' and that an assessment should not be made unless the unforeseen happens and the Carnival income fall below expectations. Under normal conditions there will be no necessity of calling for funds. Should the Carnival be drowned out it will then be time enough for the disagreeable work."

Senator-elect Harding held the attention of every man present for 10 short minutes towards the close of the session. In his short talk the speaker urged that Hawaii salute the national colors during the Carnival especially and at all other times. He declared that he has always wanted to visit these islands since the time in school when he studied geography and more especially since the American flag was hoisted over the island possessions.

Just one point dwelling on his policy at Washington was made. On this he said:

"Men, you can depend upon me that when I am senator instead of senator-elect, if I am convinced a large increase in the army and navy will better represent and protect the honor of the United States, I shall be for it."

In introducing the speaker President Farrington of the Ad club pointed to Mr. Harding as a possible future president of this nation. Senator Harding replied by stating that if he was to be such he would see that Farrington would be made vice-president of the

TREASURY DEPT. AUDITOR HERE TO CHECK BOOKS

Rumor of Change in Internal Revenue Office is Not Substantiated

The arrival of J. N. Shawhan, traveling auditor for the treasury department, from Washington today on the Matsunaka simultaneously brought a rumor that a change will shortly be made in the office of collector of internal revenue for Hawaii, but investigation did nothing to confirm the rumor.

Collector Cottrell's term expires in March and Democratic politicians are known to have their eyes on the internal revenue office as a possible patronage prospect. However, it is stated that Mr. Shawhan's visit has nothing to do with a change and that his trip is merely in the way of department routine.

No word has come from Washington to indicate whether or not Collector Cottrell is to be displaced when his term ends. A year ago Hawaiian visitors at Washington came away with the impression that the collector would be removed to make way for some good Democrat but the rumors at that time failed to materialize into fact.

Mrs. Shawhan accompanies her husband. "So far as I know my inspection of the books of Mr. Cottrell's office is no prelude to his removal," laughingly answered Shawhan to a question concerning the possibility of a new agent's appointment.

"I was given no information on that point, and my visit has nothing to do with any such possibility, as far as I know. For inspection purposes the United States is divided into four districts, and Hawaii is included in my district. The district office's accounts are supposed to be examined every three or four months, but because our force has been materially reduced, this is the first inspection we have been able to give Mr. Cottrell's office in about three years."

Morning on CHANGE

Ola monopolized the stock exchange this morning. It was the only stock that figured in transactions and the demand for it was so heavy that 500 shares were sold, all at 5 3/4, the high-water mark for 1915. Between boards 145 shares were sold, making a total of over 1,000 shares in 24 hours, which sets a record for recent operations on the Honolulu board. The closing figure today was 1-4 over yesterday's.

Between boards big blocks of McBryde and Oahu Sugar were sold, the former on a rise of 1-8 and the latter at yesterday's price. Hawaiian Sugar made a 1-2 gain to 35 on two small sales. Pioneer was up 1-4, 350 shares changing hands. Twenty-five Hako went at 135, which is 5 above the last sale made a few weeks ago. Onomea was up 1-2 to 31 1/2.

Brewery advanced 1-8 and Hilo Ex 5 1/2.

SENATOR-ELECT IS FRIEND OF SUGAR INDUSTRY

D. Dougherty, the governor's aide, Raymond C. Brown, representing the Chamber of Commerce, and by Representative C. H. Brown. The latter greeted Harding as a brother Moose.

"I was talking to a Honolulu business man on the steamer about conditions in the island sugar industry," the senator continued, "and he told me that if free sugar is made a fact, the industry will be killed in Hawaii unless some radical changes are made in the refining branch, which are not likely. From personal observation on the mainland I know that it will at least destroy the sugar industry in the states. The trip around the island which I understand is on the program will give me an opportunity to view the cane fields and study conditions at close range."

Mr. Harding is first of all a newspaperman, he explained. He has been active in both Ohio state and national politics for many years. He is editor and owner of the Marion Evening Star of Marion, Ohio, and served several terms in the legislature of that state. He was lieutenant-governor during the administration of Governor Myron T. Herrick in Ohio. As delegate to the Republican national convention at Chicago in 1912 he moved the nomination of William H. Taft as Republican candidate for re-election as president.

Speaking about the political situation as viewed on the mainland, the Ohioan said:

"The Republican administration is bound to return to power in 1916. There can be no doubt of that. Wilson is popular with his party in the Middle West and East, but not in the South. With the Republicans and with those who cast their vote independently the president is not very strong. There are several Republicans talked of for the nomination against Mr. Wilson. One of these, provided he 'makes good,' is Governor Whitman of New York. Ex-Governor Herrick of Ohio, Governor Willis of Ohio, Senator Burton of Ohio, Senator Borah of Idaho, Congressman Watson of Indiana and others have been mentioned as possible candidates."

Opposed to Ship's Purchase Bill.

Senator Harding made it plain that he is opposed to the ship's purchase bill now before Congress. "I am against that measure," he explained, "principally because it calls for government ownership and also because it would involve the United States in all sorts of international controversies. I am, however, strongly in favor of the restoration of the American merchant marine and shall give the latter my support. The government owned ships would be a menace to peace."

Fred O'Brien, who formerly was in newspaper work here and who later was located at Manila, was a reporter on the Marion Evening Star, of which Mr. Harding is editor. The senator inquired for O'Brien soon after leaving the steamer.

CABARET GIRLS GLAD TO PLACE FEET ON HAWAII

Light-hearted and happy to be once more on terra firma the half-dozen members of the Stanley Cabaret De Luxe, that will hold forth at the Popular theater commencing next Saturday night, stepped from the S. S. Matsunaka this morning.

Several of the young ladies were making their first transoceanic trip and the severe weather that came at the tail end of the voyage has made them just about make up their minds to remain in Hawaii forever. "No more of the old ocean for me," said one bright little damsel this morning. "I never was afraid before in my life but when old Father Neptune started that 'rough house' I figured the end was approaching. Guess you can count me as one of the 'home-guard' from now on."

However, it is generally conceded that all will be making the trip back to San Francisco and the big fair at the termination of their engagement at the Popular.

Upon their arrival the party immediately repaired to the Popular to commence rehearsing for the cabaret performance of next Saturday night, following which they betook themselves to the beach where they enjoyed a dip in the same old ocean they had battered earlier in the day.

The personnel of the cabaret is: Nellie Clifford, Vera Lawrence, Elizabeth Meyers, Pauline Bennett, Trixie Leach and Kathryn Costello. Incidentally Ed O'Malley, who established himself as a favorite in Honolulu during the engagement of Jim Post several years ago, accompanies the cabaret in the role of orchestra leader.
